

Maritime Frontiers in Asia:
Sino-Viet Relations, ca. 900-1800 CE

We gratefully acknowledge Robert Antony's permission to use and adapt, on our opening page, an image of an early Tongkin coastal map made in China that is in his possession. See Antony's article in this issue, fig. 1, for further details.

ASIA MAJOR

THIRD SERIES • VOLUME XXVII • PART 2 • 2014

Special Issue

MARITIME FRONTIERS IN ASIA:
SINO-VIET RELATIONS, ca. 900–1800 CE

Edited by Kathlene Baldanza and Erica Brindley

Table of Contents

Introduction

KATHLENE BALDANZA & ERICA BRINDLEY 1

Simple Natives and Cunning Merchants: Song Representations of Frontier Trade in Guangxi

SEAN MARSH 5

Commissioner Li and Prefect Huang: Sino-Vietnamese Frontier Trade Networks and Political Alliances in the Southern Song

JAMES A. ANDERSON 29

Ngo (Chinese) Communities and Montane–Littoral Conflict in Dai Viet, ca. 1400–1600

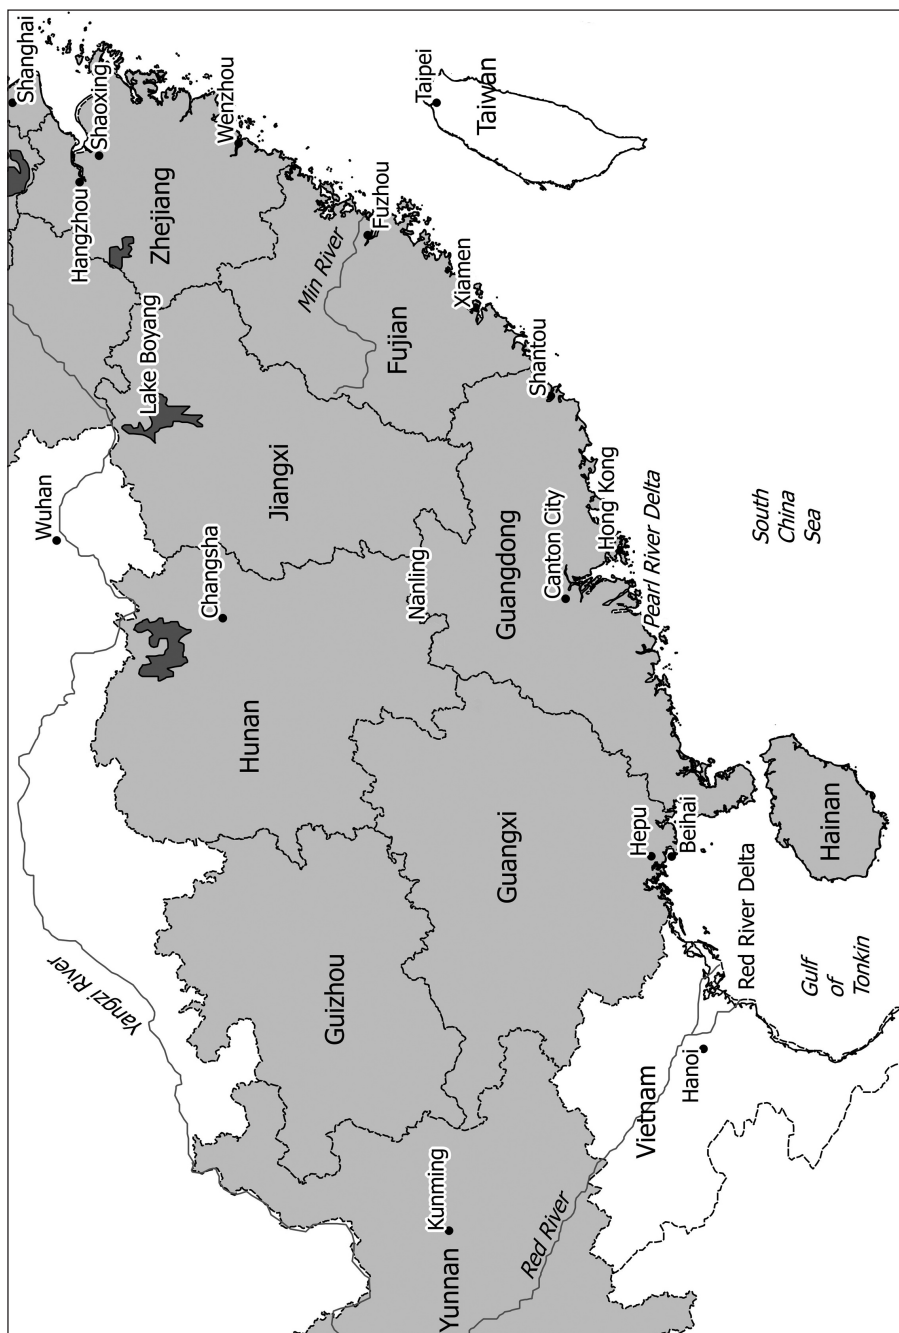

JOHN K. WHITMORE 53

Violence and Predation on the Sino-Vietnamese Maritime Frontier, 1450–1850

ROBERT J. ANTONY 87

Perspectives on the 1540 Mac Surrender to the Ming

KATHLENE BALDANZA 115

Map of Southern China, with Modern Place-Names
The range of Dai Viet-China interactions is shown in a broad geographical context.